

TO PRESERVE CURED MEATS.

Any farmer who has been annoyed by flies which get at his cured meats will do well to make use of Borax. By following the directions given below he will easily rid himself of all bother from skippers or other insects.

Directions: When the meat is taken from the salt preparatory to smoking, thoroughly sprinkle all the cut sides with Borax. Rub the Borax into the crevices. After doing this a fly will never touch it and you will have no trouble with bugs or skippers. Meat treated in this way need not be canvassed or sacked.

Messrs. Geo. W. Hill & Company, of Covington, Kentucky, have introduced this method among hundreds of farmers in northern Kentucky with uniform success. They write us that they have some three year old hams in their warehouses that were treated as above and that they are as bright and nice to-day as when first cured.

When you wish to use your meats it is only necessary to wash them off. The Borax is perfectly harmless. This was established in the pure food hearings before Senator Wm. E. Mason in 1899.

It is quite essential that you get pure Borax. There are dangerous adulterations on the market. To be safe you must get "20 MULE TEAM BORAX." If your dealer doesn't carry it send us his name and we will arrange to supply you. Free booklet of Pacific Coast Borax Company, Chicago.

CAME PRETTY FAST FOR PAT.

At That, He Had Had Only What the Doctor Ordered.

A Philadelphia physician says that not long ago he was called to see an Irishman, and among other directions told him to take an ounce of whisky three times a day. A day or so later he made another visit and found the man, while not so sick, undeniably drunk.

"How did this happen?" the physician demanded of Pat's wife, who was hovering about solicitously. "Sure, docter, an' 'tis just what you ordered, an' no more, that he had," she protested.

"I said one ounce of whisky three times a day; that could not make him drunk," the physician said. "He has had much more than that."

"Divil a drop more, docter, dear," she declared. "Sure an' I didn't know just how much an ounce was so I went to the drug store an' asked, an' the lad—he's a brother of a boy, too—told me that an ounce was 16 drams and Pat has had him regular, an' no more!"—Harper's Weekly.

The Manchester canal was built at a cost of $75,000,000 to reduce freight rates for a distance of 35 miles, and, while it did not prove a good interest bearing investment on such a large expenditure, its indirect and more permanent benefits are said to have warranted it.

Germany has 3,000 miles of canal, carefully maintained, besides 7,000 miles of other waterway. France, with an area less than we would consider a large state, has 3,000 miles of canal; and in the northern part, where the canals are most numerous, the railways are more prosperous. England, Germany, France, Holland and Belgium are all contemplating further extension and improvement of their canal systems.—Century Magazine.

The Crack in His Armor.

"It's a good thing for a man to be a little bald," said the girl as they walked along in the rear of one beneath whose hat showed a small bare half moon. "It takes the conceit out of them. Now there's John. He has a bald spot that he has spent about a hundred dollars on to no effect. When he gets too smart all I have to do is to glance carelessly toward that vulnerable spot and he subsides immediately."

Pronounce These Rapidly.

The vicar of Dwygyfychum-Pennmaenau told the royal commission of the church in Wales recently that he had been at Pystylcum-Carnwch, Llaneluog-cum-Tregalan, Llandyfaelog-cum-Llanfair and Arllechwedd.

STOP WOMAN AND CONSIDER
First, that almost every operation in our hospitals, performed upon women, becomes necessary because of neglect of such symptoms as Backache, Irregularities, Displacements, Pain in the Side, Dragging Sensations, Dizziness and Sleeplessness.
Second, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, has cured more cases of female ills than any other medicine known. It regulates, strengthens and restores women's health and is invaluable in preparing women for child-birth and during the period of Change of Life.
Third, the great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time being published by special permission, give absolute evidence of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. for advice. She is the Mrs. Pinkham who has been advising sick women free of charge for more than twenty years, and before that she assisted her mother-in-law, Lydia E. Pinkham in advising. Thus she is especially well qualified to guide sick women back to health. Write today, don't wait until too late.

AFFLICTED ONLY AT TIMES.

Good Reason for Capt. Bascomb's Inter-mittent Hearing.

When Capt. Bascomb had left his old friend, Capt. Somers, and the new school teacher sitting on the porch, and had disappeared down the road, the young woman spoke of him with some curiosity.

"I understand from Mrs. Bascomb that her husband was very deaf, almost stone-deaf," she told me, "I'm sure," said the school teacher. "But he seemed to hear all we said with perfect ease."

Capt. Somers leaned toward her and spoke in a low, cautious tone, although there was no eavesdropper to hear him.

"Don't let Mrs. Bascomb know it," he said, hurriedly. "He does seem to hear pretty well when she isn't round, but none of us folks ever let on to her. She's a good woman as ever lived, but a most tremendous boss and an everlasting talker. An' we all think that Gersh Bascomb began to realize ten years ago that if he didn't want to be harried right off'n the face o' the earth, the thing for him to do was to grow deaf, gradual, but steady—an' he's done it, to all intents an' purposes, ma'am!"—Youth's Companion.

LEFT IT TO THE OLD HENS.

Amateur Fancier Thought His Responsibility Had Ended.

An Indiana man tells of the efforts of an author belonging to the Hoosier school of historical novelists to put in his leisure time as a "hen farmer" in that state. The literary person's venture afforded his agricultural neighbors no end of amusement.

During the first year the amateur farmer discovered that all his little chickens, which were confined in coops, were languishing at the point of death. The novelist went over his "hen literature" to locate the cause of the trouble, but to no avail.

Finally he called upon an old chap named Rawlins, to whom he put the question:

"What do you suppose is the matter with those chickens?"

"Well, I dunno," said Rawlins. "What do you feed 'em?"

"Feed them!" exclaimed the novelist-farmer. "Why, I don't feed them anything!"

"Then, how'd you suppose they was a-goin' to live?"

"I presumed," replied the literary person, "that the old hens had milk enough for them now."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Architects and Closets.

An architect, says a writer, complains that women have a mania for closets and that when a woman is allowed any liberty in the matter she changes his whole architectural plan in order to make room for them. This, he says, makes him a laughing stock among his fellow architects. This is very interesting, but why do architects make plans if not to make every effort themselves to secure conveniences? A house may be architecturally perfect and yet not fit to live in, and it certainly is not if there is not closet room enough.

Fresh Fuel.

The scrap between the married couple had died down to a few listless mutterings, and the canary bird in the cage was beginning to think about singing again, when she remarked, as a sort of afterthought:

"At any rate, everybody in my family thinks I am very intelligent."

"Yes, by the side of them you are," he replied with a bitter snort.

After this the scrap was renewed jubilantly.

A Big Loser.

Mrs. Myles—I see the 24-year-old son of a London dry goods man is a bankrupt, having managed to get rid of $2,100,000 since he came of age.

Mrs. Styles—Oh, well, boys will be boys!

Mrs. Myles—Well, this looks as if a boy had an ambition to be a bridge whist player.

Never Touched Him.

"I have brought back the lawn mower I bought of you last week," said the man with the side whiskers.

"You said you would return my money if it wasn't satisfactory."

"Yes, that's what I said," replied the dealer, "but I assure you the money was perfectly satisfactory in every respect."

Foreign Waterways.

Since we began the neglect and abandonment of canals, France has quadrupled her waterways. According to figures furnished by commercial associations, the British Isles have 8,000 miles of canal and it does not all antedate the railroad.

TALKED WITH GREAT EMPEROR.

Belgian Woman Remembers Conversation with Napoleon.

There is still living in the village of Ligny, Belgium, a woman who spoke with the great Napoleon on the day of the battle—June 16, 1815—at that place.

Her name is Mme. Anne-Joseph Rubay, says the London Daily Graphic, and she will reach her one hundred and second birthday on July 29. Her memory is still perfectly clear as to the incident. Napoleon had established his quarters close to the little farm where she and her mother were alone. Her parents had buried their little stock of money and valuables in the ground, and in the morning the emperor came out and took up his position close to the spot. Fearing that he might discover the hiding place, the farmer's wife, to distract his attention, took her head in both hands and pretended to be suffering from toothache.

This attracted the emperor's attention, and coming over to the woman, he told her not to be afraid, but added that as the battle was about to be fought, she should betake herself and her little girl to a place of safety. He then turned to the little Anne-Joseph, and, patting her on her cheeks, told her to be "a good little girl and take care of her mother."

Encouraged by his kindness, the farmer's wife told the emperor that her brother had served in one of his dragon regiments, but had not been heard of for several years. On ascertaining the name of the regiment Napoleon replied that it was one of those that had suffered most during the retreat from Russia, but he would have inquiries made. He then told them to hurry off into the forest of Sombrefe until the fighting was over. Mme. Rubay has a perfect recollection of the emperor's appearance, and describes him as "a little man with a big nose."

She also remembers the scene of destruction and slaughter presented by the village when they returned the next day. She describes the French soldiers as "fine fellows," but her recollection of the Prussians is not so favorable, for "they ate up all our chickens and our two calves without paying for them."

Paid Debt After Many Years.
A Moorestown, N. J., butcher cast his bread, or, rather, his steak, on the waters, and it has returned to him after seven years.

A fashionably dressed man came into the shop the other day, threw down a banknote on the counter and said:

"Please take out what I owe you for the steak I bought seven years ago."

The man was unknown to the butcher, but on inquiry it developed that he was formerly a tramp who had picked berries in the neighborhood seven years ago, and after buying the meat left the town.

Two years later the man settled down in life, and is now a stock broker. He gave his name and office address and said he had often worried about that steak.

Another Query.
"Ever notice it?" queried the proponent of questions on the installment plan.

"Did I ever notice what?" asked the party of the audience part.

"That the man with the narrowest mind is prone to make the broadest assertions?" concluded the other.—Chicago Daily News.

Easy to Fleece Fools.

Mme. Guerin, of Paris, has been prosecuted recently on the charge of getting large sums of money from Frenchmen on the promise of securing rich and beautiful wives for them. One disappointed suitor who said he had paid the woman $7,000 testified that she offered to let him have his pick of a bevy of wealthy heiresses.

"At the opera," he said, "she pointed to three young girls in a box, and remarked, 'Take your choice,' and I picked Miss Northcliffe because she was the youngest and the prettiest."

Maori Women's Greeting.
The native women of New Zealand, the Maori, when they greet rub noses, or, rather, touch noses, allowing them selves to stand in this position several moments, making a sort of purring sound. And, taking into account the germ theory, it is a much more sensible custom than kissing.

Source of Good Government.
Good government generally begins in the family, and if the moral character of a people once degenerates, their political character must follow.

It is made of figured lawn and consists of a very attractive house jacket and a practical five-gore skirt, that allows of being made either with or without a flounce. The square cut neck and elbow sleeves are finished with beading run with black velvet ribbon. All the washable materials as well as the light weight woollens are appropriate for the making. The dressing sacque will require 3 1/2 yards of 36-inch material for 36-inch bust measure. For the skirt 9 1/2 yards will be required.

Advice from an Expert.

Mrs. Rosa Lewis, favorite chef of King Edward, has written on the subject of how to cook for kings and incidentally gives some good advice that other cooks, who only cater to the appetites of plain men of the John and William order, may do well to follow.

You can't work in kid gloves, she says; a statement some of us might be willing to contest, and she advises the new cook not to aspire to make original dishes until she has mastered the elements of her profession. She says sensible cooking is more demanded than ever and there is more intelligence on the subject.

Work of Gasoline Engine.

In place of 14 strong arms pulling seven oars, with another pair at the steering oar, now a four-cylinder, four-cycle gasoline engine pushes the craft along at ten miles an hour. A solid 18-inch propeller with a reversing clutch propels the 34-foot boat. Two gasoline tanks, one with a capacity of 25 and the other with 75 gallons of the colorless fluid in which is locked up so much effort, admit, according to Popular Mechanics, a radius of 300 miles

FULLY UP WITH THE TIMES.

Oklahoma City Surprised Narrow-Minded New Yorker.

Oklahoma amazes an easterner. The wide, asphalted streets, the plate glass fronts of department stores, the clean sidewalks, the well-dressed, unharried shoppers, the finish, the metropolitan air you find in Oklahoma City, for example, seem marvelous to find in a territory only 17 years old. But do not say so.

A New Yorker who went there on business complained that fate was thrusting him into a wilderness, and his Oklahoma associates could not reassure him. But coming down to breakfast the first morning, at his hotel in Oklahoma City, he stared around in wonder as he entered the dining-room.

"This," he exclaimed, "this is Oklahoma! Why, do you know?" confidently. "I even found a porcelain bathtub in my room."

"Well," said an Oklahoman, drily, "don't you have those in New York?"

BABY TORTURED BY ITCHING.

Rash Covered Face and Feet—Would Cry Until Tired Out—Speedy Cure by Cuticura.

"My baby was about nine months old when she had rash on her face and feet. Her feet seemed to irritate her most, especially nights. They would cause her to be broken in her rest, and sometimes she would cry until she was tired out. I had heard of so many cures by the Cuticura Remedies that I thought I would give them a trial. The improvement was noticeable in a few hours, and before I had used one box of the Cuticura Ointment her feet were well and have never troubled her since. I also used it to remove what is known as 'cradle cap' from her head, and it worked like a charm, as it cleansed and healed the scalp at the same time. Mrs. Hattie Currier, Thomaston, Me., June 9, 1906."

He Was Not to Blame.

Little Bartholomew's mother overheard him swearing like a mule driver, says the Cleveland Leader. He displayed a fluency that overwhelmed her. She took him to task, explaining the wickedness of profanity as well as its vulgarity. She asked him where he had learned all those dreadful words. Bartholomew announced that Caver, one of his playmates, had taught him. Caver's mother was straightway informed and Caver was brought to book. He vigorously denied having instructed Bartholomew, and neither threats nor tears could make him confess. At last he burst out: "I didn't tell Bartholomew any cuss words. Why should I know how to cuss any better than he does? Haven't his father got an automobile, too?"

Cunning Chap.

"Yes," confessed the blushing girl with the white parasol. "I thought it rather odd that Jack should keep on asking about our college yell. Finally, to get rid of him, I told him it was three yells in quick succession."

"What then?" asked her chum.

"What then? Why, the goose kissed me three times before I could remonstrate and when I gave a yell for each kiss mamma thought I was giving the class yell."

A Country Marvel.

The little fresh air boy was comfortably quartered in a farm house near the salt water for his summer's outing. The first day he strolled down the road to the marbles and he stared in astonishment at the cat-tails growing there. Then turning around to a native of the place who was accompanying him he said: "Gosh; I didn't know that sausages grow on sticks."

Left Army for Pork Trade.

Aladar Stollnick, an aristocratic lieutenant of a Hungarian hussar regiment, has resigned his commission to become an apprentice to a pork butcher in Budapest. He says he can not live on his pay—$400 a year—and that he considers a man of intelligence and energy can do well in the pork trade.

The Reason Why.

"How did you come here?" said one Mexican bull to an old acquaintance, as they met in the arena.

"How?" replied the other, with a glance around. "I may say I was roped in."

Man does what he can, and hears what he must, and the name by which he calls the result is left to each to decide: a clever man calls it happiness.—Goethe.

WHAT'S THE USE?

To Pour in Coffee When It Acts as a Vicious Enemy.

Fasters have gone without food for many days at a time but no one can go without sleep. For a long time I have not been sleeping well, often lying awake for two or three hours during the night but now I sleep sound every night and wake up refreshed and vigorous," says a Calif. woman.

"Do you know why? It's because I used to drink coffee but I finally cut it out and began using Postum. Twice since then I have drank coffee and both times I passed a sleepless night, and so I am doubly convinced coffee caused the trouble and Postum removed it."

"My brother was in the habit of drinking coffee three times a day. He was troubled with sour stomach and I would often notice him getting soda from the can to relieve the distress in his stomach; lately hardly a day passed without a dose of soda for relief."

"Finally he tried a cup of Postum and liked it so well he gave up coffee and since then he has been drinking Postum in its place and says he has not once been troubled with sour stomach."

Even after this lady's experience with coffee her brother did not suspect for a time that coffee was causing his sour stomach, but easily proved it.

Coffee is not suspected in thousands of cases just like this but it's easily proved. A ten day's trial works wonders. "There's a Reason."
